

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A ballast with circuitry to provide an isolated source of power for external devices that interfaces with a circuit for determining the amount of illumination the ballasted fixture is to provide. This same isolated power is also used within the ballast enclosure to drive circuitry that is connected to wires leading outside of the fixture.